UN HABITAT
FOR A BETTER URBAN FUTURE

In collaboration with:

(Guatemala a City and Livingston, Izabal)

How is the COVID 19 emergency affecting the food systems in your city?

■ - During the start of the lockdown there was a lot of difficulty in acquiring food, as the lines were very long in stores, markets and supermarkets with very restricted hours.

- There was difficulty in supplying some food in the cities, due to the fact that the people in the fields, that supplied the city, were not working and also there's an excessive hoarding by some people.

Innovations in resilient systems from grassroots women at neighborhoods:

- The Regional Women's Agenda for the Right to the City had been worked on.

- The Community Resilience Fund –CRF–was implemented in some cities with food security processes. Seeds Festivals

-There was a strong and committed women's organization –All these areas before the Pandemia !

Regional School of Women for the Right to the City: the rights to food security

The focus of this training process for Indigenous, Mayan and Garifuna women from Livingston and Guatemala City, was modified to work actions on Food Security Systems.

There will be leaders who work on food security and nutrition practices in different neighborhoods of Livingston and Guatemala City with practical experiences

We will have a demonstration site on food systems as a training site for schools, universities, organizations, among others in association with the local Municipality and the Ministry of Agriculture, Livestock and Food.

Temas a tratar en la Escuela Regional:

Importancia del Desarrollo de Capacidades y Destrezas de las Mujeres para la Participación y el ejercicio del derecho de las mujeres a la seguridad alimentaria en las ciudades.

Curso Básico en Gestión Integral del Riesgo -CBGIR- y su impacto en el derecho a la seguridad alimentaria en las ciudades

THANK YOU!
